

Past Simple - Story Telling

In small groups, one student begins the story with one of the introductory phrases. The next student must create the second sentence. The third student creates the third sentence and so on.

Remember that the story is about the first student's phrase so all following sentences must follow his or her plot line. When the story hits a dead end or gets boring, the next student starts over with a new introductory phrase and so on. Remember to use the past tense.

Stories - Introductory phrases

One day I forgot to do my English homework...

One day I woke up late for school/work....

One day I fought with my best friend over....

One day I took a very difficult English test...

One day I saw my English teacher with a beautiful/handsome woman/man...

One day I saw a building on fire and a woman was...

One day I met the most beautiful/handsome man/woman...

One day I went to a party and drank a lot of wine and then...

One day I ate too much and I...

One day I flew to England and I...

One day I bought a beautiful new...

